The.Matrix.Revolutions.2003.BluRay.720p.DTS.2Audio.x264-CHD.mkvQ: C#/.Net Mvc - Where do I find the result of a POST/PUT/DELETE request? I have a web app that is running on local IIS 7.5. I have a controller that looks something like this: public ActionResult Create(int id, string firstName, string lastName, string title, string company) { //LOGIC } When I hit the 'submit' button in the UI, I send a request to the action which in turn fires off the logic. My question is, where can I find the result of the "create" (in this case 'Invalid Company Name')? I need to alert the user that they entered a company name that violates the rules. I had thought about retrying, but I'm guessing that's not what I want. I want to be able to check if the request fails after the user submits. Any help is appreciated. Thanks. A: You can give your own controller to check like this public class HomeController : Controller { public ActionResult Create(int id, string firstName, string lastName, string title, string company) { // Do some DB logic if(DoSomething()) { return Json(new { success = true, content = "Company name is valid" }); } else { return Json(new { success = false, content = "Company name is invalid" }); } } public ActionResult SomethingElse(int id, string firstName, string lastName, string title, string company) { // Do some DB logic if(Do
