Table 6-5 lists the most common AI brushes. * _Photoshop Plug-Ins_ Photoshop has a robust plug-in architecture that enables it to adapt to a wide variety of image editing or compositing tasks. Using plug-ins, users can enhance their editing or compositing results and easily integrate new styles, effects, and content into their work. In many cases, the plug-ins can be used on every type of image, not just Photoshop files. In addition, plug-ins are the primary way that Photoshop can be used to modify virtually any type of data-based media file. The Adobe plug-in architecture is a very flexible system. So much so that many third-party software developers have created plug-ins that can easily be used with Photoshop. Similar rates of recurrence in patients with type 2 endoleaks after first-generation versus second-generation endografts. The aim of the study was to compare the rates of recurrent endoleak after first- versus second-generation endografts. From May 1997 to January 2009, 127 patients underwent endovascular aneurysm repair with a bifurcated graft at our institution; 19 patients received a first-generation endograft, and 108 a second-generation endograft (LeMaitre Vascular). Patients with reintervention after May 2004 were excluded from the analysis. The study end points were symptomatic persistent endoleaks, procedure-related complications, reinterventions for recanalization, and deaths from any cause. During a mean follow-up of 62 months, the rates of symptomatic persistent endoleaks were similar for first- versus second-generation endografts (38% versus 45%, P =.57), as well as for type 1 versus type 2 endoleaks (17% versus 36%, P =.21). The rate of endoleaks requiring reintervention for recanalization was similar for first- versus second-generation endografts (21% versus 30%, P =.44). The rate of graft-related complications was not significantly different for first- versus second-generation endografts (23% versus 20%, P =.82). The rate of all-cause mortality was similar for first- versus second-generation endografts (15% versus 10%, P =.58). Per protocol analysis of this retrospective study is subject to selection bias. In a large cohort of patients with aortic aneurysms undergoing endovascular repair, the rates of recurrence after first- versus second-generation endografts were similar, as were the rates of procedure-related complications.Q: How to prevent the app from crashing from throwing a TooManyRows exception while converting from SQLite to Realm in swift?
