Below are some tips for an incredible and thoroughly enjoyable Long Island Wine Tour:

- ❑ Book in advance – Book your tour and your vehicle in advance. Last-minute inquiries can lead to disappointment as wineries have limited availability.
- ❑ Book a vehicle – Tasting all those wines can get you a little tipsy. Plus, you'll probably have to drive between wineries to get around. So it's better to hire a vehicle and have a designated driver.
- ❑ Start early – It's better to start and reach early to avoid the crowd at the winery. This will help you explore more and get one-on-one attention.
- ❑ Choosing the right winery – The largest wineries are the busiest and likely, least personal, so we recommend choosing one of those smaller, boutique wineries if you want to make your trip authentic and more memorable.

- Have a hearty meal – Before embarking on a wine tasting journey, it's recommended to eat something to avoid getting tipsy. Make sure it's not too spicy or over seasoned. Your taste buds should be neutral to understand the taste of the wines properly. Some wineries even have on-site restaurants and plan a menu that matches perfectly with their wines.
  - Avoid too much cheese – Sometimes a tasting room offers cheese samples along with the wine tasting. Avoid eating too much so that it doesn't alter your perception of the wine's taste.
